

Chantal-Aimée Doerries QC is commercial barrister specialising disputes relating to large infrastructure and energy projects. She practices from Atkin Chambers in London, where she has been Head of Chambers since 2017.

As well as being instructed in connection with a number of significant and high-profile projects in the UK, recent cases have involved international disputes arising in Asia (Singapore, China, Korea and Indonesia), Europe (Norway, Germany, and Switzerland), the Middle East ((Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Oman, Qatar), South America (Peru, Costa Rica) and Ukraine.

She has been involved in arbitrations including ICC, LCIA, LMAA, SIAC, SCMA, UNICTRAL and Swiss Rules. In addition to acting as counsel, she has accepted appointments from parties and from institutions as Chair and as Co-Arbitrator.

Identified by leading legal directories for many years as a leading UK practitioner in construction, energy and natural resources, professional negligence, and international arbitration, Chantal-Aimée is also ranked as a notable practitioner by Chambers and Partners for Arbitration (International) – The English Bar – Asia-Pacific Region (Chambers & Partners).

She was the 2016 Chairman of the Bar of England and Wales and is Co-Editor in Chief of the International Construction Law Review and Joint Editor of the Building Law Reports. She is an alumna of the University of Pennsylvania and Cambridge University, and a life fellow of the American Bar Foundation.